Payzaar selected as Top 5 Disruptive Startup at 2017 HR Tech World conference

25 September 2017

Ireland-based tech start-up Payzaar has been selected as one of 5 finalists from hundreds of nominations for the HR Tech World Startup Competition in Amsterdam.

Launched in June 2017, Payzaar is a new technology platform that enables multinational companies to manage their complex payroll operations across countries in a more consistent, efficient, compliant and insights-driven manner. Payzaar leverages companies' existing investments in local and regional payroll solutions, and seamlessly aggregates workflows and data into one integrated central platform. Payzaar does so by offering an open marketplace for payroll that connects multinational companies with local payroll providers in a secure, transparent and reliable way.

CEO of Payzaar Marc-Oliver Fiedler said: "We are aiming to bring the same kind of connectivity, transparency and efficiency to the global payroll market as platforms like Booking.com, Uber, Airbnb and LinkedIn have brought to their respective industries over the past decade."

Payzaar is currently working with a number of multinational companies ranging from family-run SMBs to large Fortune 500 companies and has lined up a vendor network of more than 30 top-notch partners around the world.

The finalists for the HR Tech World startup competition are selected from hundreds of startups that represent the next generation of game changers, doers, leaders and disrupters. Thousands of HR leaders each year attend HR Tech World and Payzaar will pitch their innovative solution to a panel of analysts, investors, media and prospective customers.

"For Payzaar to be chosen as one of the Top 5 startups at HR Tech World recognizes the tremendous challenges that companies are facing in running their multi-country payroll operations today and is a testament to the disruptive nature of the Payzaar approach." says Payzaar CEO Marc-Oliver Fiedler.

Past winners of the HR Tech World Startup Competition have gone on to secure $100 million in investment in the last 3 years.

Payzaar is backed by investments from Global Founders Capital (GFC), Rocket Internet's venture capital arm, Enterprise Ireland and a number of private business angels.
